The Only Gift We Have to Give

Our unveiled gaze receives and reflects the brightness of God until we are gradually turned into the image that we reflect.

-2 Corinthians 3:18

One of our country's most insightful social commentators once remarked that as a society we've all gotten away from the "true meaning of Christmas--the birth of Santa."

Homer Simpson, in his inimitable way, points to the season's frenetic call to action as we make and cross out lists, scramble to shop and wrap and mail, and often wonder, "what's the point?"

Overshadowed by all the doing, our incarnated Being silently awaits the only gift we really have to give: our heartfelt attention. Not so much the focused kind of attention, but simple being-with-appreciation as when meeting an Old Friend who has faithfully been with us through all our adventures, waiting to be seen and invited more fully into our lives.

Our Divine Presence is itself the cause for celebration and the foundation for our giving and sharing, whether through secular tradition, religious ritual, or personal relating.

The flow of our being, which is love, will use any pretext for its expression--even Santa.

Some insights from the fall course:

The course gave me a much deeper understanding of the Trillium teachings. I became acquainted with the resources available on the website and enjoyed in-depth discussion of the materials in both our teacher-led and peer groups.

~Leah Horwood, Norway

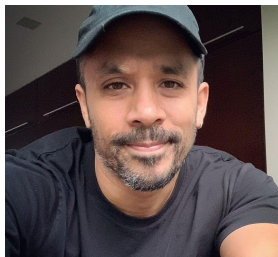

The Discovery Course is a deep dive into all the different aspects of the Trillium path and has definitely enhanced my awakening process.

~John Lane, MA

In a spiritual marketplace that can lead to misunderstanding and murk, this course helps distinguish what makes our teaching different and effective. It's been a privilege to take part in supporting this new course and a refreshment for me. It's a wonderful way to help one calibrate in a deep way to this teaching.

~Anna-Lena Toledo, Mentor, NM

Shades of You: Video by Ade Richardson

Why do we fall and then give up? Perhaps it has something to do with looking at difficult things in our lives as obstacles rather than as an essential part of our journey.

It's the Giving Season

Our Trillium work brings more light, more compassion, more love, more peace, and more awakening to those who are ready, open, and searching.

Please remember the great gift of Trillium Awakening in this season of giving. Make a donation to our Outreach Fund so that we can share our work with more of those who are searching.

Please Give

Trillium Awakening is a unique offering to the world, with 40 teachers, 17 mentors, dozens of workshops, retreats, sittings, in-person and online mutuality groups, and a shared manifesto and mission to catalyze awakening for individuals, society, and the world.
